Dear Mr. and Mrs. Kayser:

I'm writing to follow up on the brief phone conversation you had the other day with my colleague, Robin Jacobson, regarding our use of a painting you own, Still Life Supreme, by Martha Mayer Erlebacher, which appears in Holt's Interactive Writing CD-ROM, distributed in educational markets. First of all, many thanks for all your efforts helping Robin locate the artist, who is still in Elkins Park, Pennsylvania and was grateful to hear from us and to learn a little of the history of how her painting had changed hands. We are of course securing her permission for the use of her painting as well as yours, which I understand you are generously granting once again.

I am enclosing a permission form for this version of the product, which is now entitled "Language Arts: Interactive Writing Workshop." Could you please fill out the second page of this permission form and mail both pages back to me at:

Kenn Rabin
308 Laurel Avenue
San Anselmo, CA 94960-2111

Please do not mail this form to the Austin, Texas address on this letterhead. You need not fill out a social security number or "payable to" since you are not requesting payment, but please do put your phone number and print your name as well as signing and dating the form for us. If you prefer to fax the form back to me, you may fax both pages to 415-459-4498.

I also want you to know that I am putting in the database that you are to receive a copy of the product when it is released. I can't guarantee when that will be, but I will make sure you are on the list to receive it.

Many thanks for your cooperation. If you have any questions, feel free to call me at 415-459-4429.

Best regards,

Kenn Rabin

Attached is the form that you requested. I believe that you still have the transparency.
When will I get it back?

Thanks

On behalf of Holt, Rinehart and Winston, I am requesting permission to re-use the image "Still Life Supreme" by Martha Mayer Erlebacher for Writer's Workshop CD-ROM ©2000. Imagery is used throughout this program. A major portion, however, is in the media center which consists of fine art, contemporary art, and photos. This section presents thumbnails (6 viewed at a time) as themes/concepts to inspire the writer. Full credit will appear in a separate acknowledgment read me file. Precautions have been taken to protect the copyrighted material. Since this is a revision, do not send the images. We will pick up from existing scans.

Note the publishing data below. If we have your permission for re-use, kindly authorize by signing this letter and promptly returning it to my attention at the above address. All correspondence (including billing) should be conducted through me, however, all fees will be paid by Holt. To speed processing, Holt's name and address should appear prominently at the top of any contract or invoice. Also, for billing purposes, please include your Social Security or Federal Tax ID number. Holt's address is as follows: Holt, Rinehart and Winston, 1120 S. Capital of Texas Highway, Austin, Texas 78746.

Title: Writer's Workshop CD-ROM ©2000

Dear Mrs. Janss:

This is to thank you for providing the transparency of Martha Mayer Erlebacher's Still Life Supreme for my forthcoming book on watercolor.

I have been away from the project for a couple of months, but am back on track, and I wanted you to have the enclosed copy of my last book Color in Contemporary Painting. It will give you an idea of the level of color reproduction we are aiming for in the next one, and I hope you will enjoy it.

I shall also be sending you a form for permission to reproduce the work in the near future. Thanks again for your help.

Sincerely,

Dear Mr. Kayser:

This is to thank you for forwarding the transparency of Martha Erlebacher's Still Life Supreme, and to assure you that it will be returned (though probably not until the first of the new year.) Meanwhile, I am collecting material for the designers of the new edition of my book, but can't promise precisely which pictures will be chosen for enlargement.

One thing that will be changed of course is the "Collection of" credit line, and since you are the new owner, I will need formal permission to reproduce the work with the following description:

Martha Erlebacher
Still Life Supreme, 1979
watercolor, 16 $\frac{1}{4}$ x 24 inches
Collection of Mr. and Mrs. Donald R. Kayser, Boise, Idaho

To indicate your approval, please sign and return one copy of this form, keeping the other for your records

Thanks for your consideration.

Sincerely,

Charles Le Clair, author

Mrs. William C. Janss,

Dear Mrs. Janss.:

For the 1994 edition of my book The Art of Watercolor, you very kindly provided a transparency of Martha Erlebacher's painting Still Life Supreme which appears on page 109. The photo was subsequently returned together with a copy of the book.

The book has been very successful, despite the fact that pages were cut and the illustrations often reduced in size. Now I have the good news that the publisher will produced an enlarged, re-designed edition with an added chapter and much larger illustrations.

Therefore, I am writing the hope that you can send me the transparency again for this new edition. I can't promise which pictures will be done in a larger scale, because that is in the hands of the Watson-Guptill art department, but there is a very good chance that your watercolor—which is already shown well—will appear even more advantageously if we have the transparency to work with. And of course you will get a copy of the new edition. Although work begins now, it is scheduled for publication in Spring 1999.

I shall look forward to hearing from you, and hope you can help.

Sincerely,

Charles Le Clair
