Vintage Tribal Collection

"Spirit Keepers" is an inspired series of fiber sculpture by Artist Shelley Rapp Evans. These original figurative forms are composed by the artist from exotic and vintage textiles, fibers, and found natural materials. Each figure evokes a spiritual power, its strength is evident in its primitive simplicity and uncommon beauty. Spiritual figures, housing special powers, have been used by ancient cultures for centuries to bring good luck and protection. The "Spirit Keepers" series by Shelley Rapp Evans continues that tradition.

1. Description of the Art

Historical References / Inspiration

Nomadic Gypsies and Tribes of India, Asia, Bali, Thailand.

Hand sewn cloths, indigenous natural fibers, primitive found objects.

Media and Construction

Wood / metal armature, hand sewn, bundled and tied natural fibers and found objects.

Materials are natural and age gently over time.

Presentation

1. Open air on pedestal, shelf or wall hanging.
2. Encased in Lucite box provided by artist, on separate pedestal, shelf or with French cleat for wall hanging.

2. Artist Statement

"Weaving together myth, magic and ancient folklore, I create my "Spirit Keepers". I seek pieces during my travels. Treasures are discovered at exotic sources such as Turkey and Singapore and include mud-cloths from Africa, batiks from Bali, and silks from Thailand. In my studio I allow the rich fabrics and uncommon textures to guide my hand through the process of creation. I am always searching for that most interesting combination of texture and treasure to give each figure its individual "spirit".

3. About The Artist

Shelley Rapp Evans is a critically acclaimed professional artist specializing in fiber sculpture and mixed-media. Evans is self-taught; her early work includes fiber weavings, on and off loom weaving and metal sculpture. In 1991 she started her signature "Spirit Keeper" series of primitive figures. The "Spirit Keepers" are collected internationally and have brought Evans many prestigious awards. Evans was born in Pasadena California in 1950 and attended Pasadena City College and San Diego State University. She maintains a studio in Laguna Beach California. Her work is available at limited galleries, fine art festivals and by commission through the artist.

Spirit Keepers

For centuries primitive cultures have made figurative forms to house a spirit. These formed images were thought to bring good luck or protection.

Many Ancient Cultures that the power of the figure is not symbolic but real.

The "Spirit Keepers" are designed to capture this same magic. Each sculpture is unique and reflects the energy of its maker.

Simple and exotic materials along with found elements are used to create the Spirit Keepers.

Often adornments or symbols that reflect power, happiness or good fortune are attached to the sculpture to strengthen the powers of the spirit.
